

NO PROTECTION FOR RAILROADERS

City Has No Authority or Control Over Local Employment Offices.

In a case tried in the local police court on Thursday afternoon, which John Renard, railroadier, laid a charge of obtaining money under false pretences against A. G. Harvey, of Violet & Milburn, the employment agency, it was developed by the evidence and the decision of the magistrate that the city of Edmonton has no power to discipline, regulate or otherwise control employment offices in the city, and that anything the employment office may do in their dealings with the men employed to work on the grade are entirely beyond the periphery of the municipality bylaws.

Renard, who laid the charge, was one of a group of 25 railroaders who sought employment at the local employment agency, First street, and having paid their dollar, were sent out on the grade. According to the evidence given, they were to go to work at Mile 16, but upon arriving there they found 36 miles farther west, where they found the men and found men coming in from camps still further west.

Returning to town, the men consulted with J. A. Clark and laid an action against Harvey, of Violet & Milburn's office.

Three witnesses swore that they paid the money to a clerk in Violet & Milburn's office, and went 36 miles west on the Mile 16, where they were refused by Piche and Stupley. One man on returning was given his dollar back.

On the evidence being put in, Mr. Pratt asked that the criminal charge of obtaining money under false pretences be dismissed against Mr. Harvey (of Violet & Milburn), on the grounds that the money was actually taken by a clerk in the office, and Mr. Harvey could not be criminally liable for the act of another.

Before dealing with the law and discharging the magistrate, Clark took advantage of the presence of the local employment office to give a general lecture to the many complainants that had been brought in from regarding the practice of sending men out to work where there was no work, and keeping the dollar into the bargain.

Dealing with the by-law governing offices, the magistrate said that the clause (No. 7) which attempted to define what was criminal and what was not criminal was clearly ultra vires of the city council and was of no effect whatever.

Dealing with clause 5, which provided that where men pay $1.00 and do not get work in a week, they can get 50 cents back, the magistrate held first that the workmen would be forced to bring evidence from the place where they were going to work to prove that there was work there. J. A. Clark attempted to combat this stand of the magistrate but his worship was firm in his interpretation of the law, although he sympathized with Mr. Clark that this would effectively prevent any workman being able to sue.

IMPOSSIBLE FOR CITIES TO COMPLY WITH ORDER

Cannot Instal Sewage Disposal Plants by End of Year, as Instructed by Provincial Health Board, Says City Engineer

That the recent order of the provincial board of health, instructing municipalities throughout the province, to instal sewage disposal plants by Dec. 31 of this year, is believed by Engineer Latourne to be an order with which few towns or cities of Alberta can possibly comply.

When approached by a Capital Hill newspaper in regard to the practicability of the new order, the engineer expressed the opinion that unless the department could be satisfied with the preparation of plans, and the completion of the design of the future system, it would be impossible to comply with the regulations at such short notice as has been given. In Edmonton it is quite impossible to comply. The engineer said that he would be to carry out the installation of the sewerage disposal plant. This was not provided for in the estimates, but it might be arranged to carry out the work.

The engineer pointed out that the big trunk sewer which is to be constructed east of the penitentiary property cannot be completed until the spring of 1912. The trunk sewer will form the main outflow for the sewage of the city, and until it is completed, no disposal plant could be put into use. Alex. Potter, C. E., who prepared a comprehensive report on the city's future system last year, recommended that the disposal plant be located on the Strathcona side of the river, and the sewerage carried across by siphon. Whether the plant be erected on the north or south side of the river, however, it cannot be put in this year.

Indications of a record smashing year in the building trade in Edmonton are disclosed by a perusal of the budget of permits which is daily issued from the building inspector's office. During the present week permits representing a total building valuation of over $180,000 have been issued by the department. Included in these is the big Tracer block on First street, which will cost in the neighborhood of $120,000. The remainder are almost entirely on account of residential buildings, while new business premises are also included in the total.

The permits which have been issued during the present week are:

SODERBERG TRIAL AGAIN ADJOURNED

Said That Strongest Evidence Will Be Produced Monday—Solicitors Visit Scene

Stettler, April 15.—After a brief adjournment, the trial of Alex Soderberg for the murder of John J. Harding, was called on for Monday afternoon. Then the Crown will present the strongest evidence against the accused. The only witness examined yesterday morning was "Billy" Whitford, a young half-breed, at first arrested for the murder, and H. T. Harding, a Stettler lawyer. The former's evidence, if anything, added a little to the case of the Crown against the prisoner, but there was nothing sensational in it. Harding, who has been acting in the Lennox estate, produced numerous showing that Soderberg was indicted to Lennox for $4,666.

Scene of the Crime.

Yesterday afternoon counsel for both sides visited the scene of the murder. The Lennox shack lies twelve miles to the north of Stettler, in a wide, rugged country on the south shore of Buffalo Lake.

OIL COMPANY WILL ERECT A WAREHOUSE

Site for Central Tank Station Purchased on Twenty-First by Imperial Oil Co.—Buildings Will Cost About $60,000

A $60,000 plant for handling petroleum products, together with all necessary offices and stables, will be erected by the Imperial Oil Co. This spring on property which has been purchased by them in Block 1, Great Estate, five blocks north of Jasper on Twenty-first street.

The sale of the land has just been completed through the Union Land and Investment Co. The lots have been purchased, at a cost of $6,900, and the site is located at the point at which the lines of the C. N. R., G. T. P., and the E. V. and P. tracks converge. Ideal truck accommodation will thus be provided in connection with the new plant.

The building which will be erected during the next two months will cost $25,000, but the total cost of the plant, inclusive of trackage facilities, barns and offices, will be little short of $60,000. Barrels will be shipped into the city from Vancouver, and filled for distribution at the division station here, for shipment north and west of Edmonton, and distribution in the Twin cities. The company are now building a barrel factory in Vancouver.

The Imperial Oil Co. now has some 22 tankage stations in the prairie provinces. For the districts south and east of Edmonton provision has already been made, and the Edmonton divisional plant will cater only to the trade of this city, of Strathcona, and of the north country.

The deal for the purchase of the plant was put through by the Union Land and Investment Co. for the division manager of the Imperial Oil Co., J. A. Boyd.

SPANISH REVOLT STARTS IN SOUTH

Populace of Small Town Near Gibraltar Asks for Republic—Troops Ordered Out

Madrid, April 15.—An embryo republic has been proclaimed at Canillas de Acetuna, in the Province of Malaga. The populace of the town rebelled against the royal authority, and attacked the barracks of the civil guard. Several persons were wounded in the fighting that followed.

Reinforcements of troops are being hurried to the scene. Canillas de Acetuna is a town of about 5,000 inhabitants in the Velazquez district, in the southern part of the Province of Malaga, Malaga province borders on the Mediterranean, its capital, Malaga, being 55 miles north-east of Gibraltar.

King Alfonso had an unpleasant experience in Malaga last January, following his arrival in that city from Madrid while en route for Melilla, Morocco. As he was about to leave the General's palace doors there was an explosion in the crowd and two persons were injured. A detailed account of the incident states that a civilian had dropped "a pistol enclosed in a box." Many persons believed that an attempt on the life of the monarch had been made.

New York, April 15.—After more than eighteen years of building the choir, the crossing and two chapels of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine, on Morningside Heights, are completed and ready for their opening and dedication on Wednesday next. Preparations for the first service in the chapel of the cathedral on the morning of April 19 are practically completed and judging from the program the opening service will be a brilliant and interesting event, worthy of the most magnificent and monumental cathedral structure in this country.

ed members of the clergy and the laity have been invited to attend the opening service and it is fair to assume that nearly all the invited guests and many others, not especially invited, will be present on that occasion.

DEPARTMENT OF NEGLECTED CHILDREN SAVES ANOTHER BOY

LITTLE COLORED LAD, WHO WAS GIVING POLICE CONSIDERABLE TROUBLE, IS TAKEN IN HAND, AND IS NOW MAKING GOOD.

The Capital here publishes a picture and story of a negro boy, who, rescued by the department of neglected children from a life of thieving, is making good in Edmonton. The boy is an outstanding instance of the success of the probation system under which certain children are handled by the department.

Because his parents, an old negro couple, were unable to earn sufficient to keep their family in daily bread, this boy, 14 years of age, began to drift, and fell into bad companionship, and later into a life of systematic stealing. From this life he was rescued by the officers of the department, and he is now making good as a probationer, and will soon be released from that state.

The value of the rescue of this boy is inestimable. It is from gangs of negro youths, living lives of vice in the cities, that the criminal negro element so much feared, springs into existence.

This boy's parents were poor, but honest farmers. Allowed to drift with the tide of evil, the boy might have become an habitual criminal. Today he is in useful work, and has not a black mark against his name.

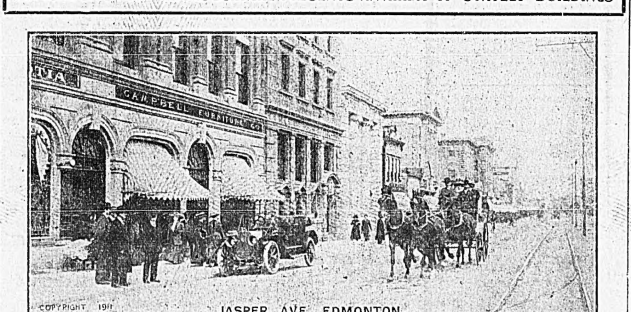

The boy came with his parents a year or two ago, from Oklahoma, and went with them on to a homestead. They failed to make a sufficient living, however, and moved to the city, where they searched for work. The boy was not kept at school, but was allowed to do pretty much what he pleased. When the department picked him up, he was giving the police some trouble in the matter of thieving.

The department put the boy on probation, and he is now doing so well, and displays such a strong desire to live properly, that he was soon released.

Under the probation system the department have succeeded in rescuing

"Your husband might have a little cold food directly he begins to mend," said the doctor.

"But how am I to tell?" inquired the anxious wife.

"The convalescent stages of influenza," replied the doctor, "are marked by a slight irritability."

The next day he called, and found his patient's wife radiant.

"When I refused to order him steak and codfish," she explained, "he came into the kitchen and smashed fourteen soup plates and a dinner service; so, of course, I sent out for steak at once."

Advertisements—especially those of a personal character—are not always characterized by a sense of proportion. One of the most singular "raggy" advertisements was printed recently in a Lancashire newspaper. It ran as follows:

"Willie return to your distracted wife and frantic children. Do you want to hear of your old mother's suicide? You will if you do not let us know where you are. Anyway, send back your father's colored meerschaum!"

She—"They say that an apple a day will keep the doctor away."

He—"Why stop there? An onion a day will keep everybody away."

"Why don't you try to make yourself one of the intellectual celebrities of your time?"

"What's the use?" answered the bright but indolent young man; "the firm whose patent food I have been eating would come along and want all the credit."

"My dear fellow, by the unwashed dishes and cups and saucers. There are ninety of each in all, which shows that he used three a day for thirty days, and left them for her to wash when she comes home—same as we all do. Simplest thing in the world, my dear fellow—simplest thing in the world."

Mother—"What are you doing, Harry?"

Harry—"I'm counting. You told me when I got out to count a hundred."

Mother—"Yes, so I did."

Harry—"Well, I've counted 237 and I'm madder when I started."—Harpers.

Teacher (to new pupil)—"Why did Hannibal cross the Alps, my little man?"

My Little Man—"For the same reason as the 'en crossed it' road. Yer don't catch me with no puzzle!"—Sydney Bulletin.

"What do you think of the idea of an extra session of congress?"

"Well," replied Farmer Corliss, "some extra sessions is all right, but newspapers. They ain't enough in 'em to justify the holierin'."—Washington Star.

Miss Passy—"You have saved my life, young man. How can I repay you?"

How can I show my gratitude? Are you married?"

Young Man—"Yes; come and be a companion for us."—Woman's Home Companion.

EUROPE' GREAT FLYING YEAR

Many Races on—One 2000 Miles, From Paris to Berlin, London and Back—Thousands in Prizes

If any American flying men are out to make money and have sport, there are opportunities to spare for them in Europe this year. France alone has put up something like 220,000 in prizes already, but of that amount Eugene Renaud, a distance of 230 miles, finding his way across country along a line where there are hardly any towns of note to guide him. He was only allowed two landings, so if he lost his way he could not come down to inquire.

Starting from Paris, the aviator, carrying a passenger, had to fly to Clermont-Gerard, a distance of 230 miles, finding his way across country along a line where there are hardly any towns of note to guide him. He was only allowed two landings, so if he lost his way he could not come down to inquire.

The fiercest landings he had to make were on the 15th of April, on three sides there is a straight drop of several hundred feet, and on the fourth there is a rock wall, where part of the mountain rises still higher.

The Nicest Calculation. The flyer landed in the air only two choices, unless he can stop his machine inside a hundred yards. He can charge the rock wall and smash his machine or he can shoot over the edge. If he does this he will probably catch his tail on the edge and smash the control, so that he will go head first into the valley below. Renaud, however, was too clever for that; he could stop his machine flat inside of a 20-yard circle. Consequently when he made his attempt he landed four miles an hour. It is practically impossible to hear any one speak, as every motorist knows.

However, that $20,000 is won, so we can now consider what else there is worth winning. First and foremost there is the Gordon Bennett cup, which Currier brought to the States in 1909, and Grahame-White took away again in 1910. The race is for 24 hours, and it is going to produce about the hottest contest seen anywhere in any form of sport. Those who were at Belmont Park will remember that La Blane and Grahame-White, flying at about sixty-five miles an hour, seemed to be racing simply by putting his power on to their machines, as, for example, Armstrong Drexler's idea of putting 150-horse-power on to a Muree monoplane about the size of Grahame-White's Blériot.

Others are making in the direction of machines which will slip through

BOMBS AND THE POLICE

Few members of the general public are aware of the method adopted by the British Home Office when a bomb, alleged or real, comes into the possession of the police.

It is generally known that the article under suspicion is at once put into a pall of water, but the later proceedings have so far been left to the imagination. Here is what actually happens after a thorough soaking of the object under suspicion is assured.

What is known as the "danger" cart is sent from the Magazine in Hyde Park, London, where it is kept, to the point where the "bomb" may be, and not many who might chance to see a small hand cart, painted a brilliant red, being drawn along the street, would realize that it possibly contained an instrument of destruction which had been intended to blow up some public place or other.

The cart itself is built on two finely balanced springs, and has suspended underneath it a smaller, box-shaped receptacle in which the suspected article is placed.

The cart and the suspended box are built with the greatest care, so that, no matter how great the jolting may be, the contents of the lower chamber will be in no way disturbed.

The "danger" cart is generally drawn, along by two men in plain clothes, whose duty it is to see the cart and its contents safely housed in the laboratory of the Magazine. There the examination by experts takes place.

A four days' Winter Fair was held at Regina.

A hundred or more young people from Vancouver went in special cars to New Westminster to attend a Sunday school assembly.

Shiloh's Cure
quickly stops cough, cures cold, heals the throat and lungs.

the air easier. Of these the most promising is Neupert, who has just flown fifty miles in forty-five minutes on a monoplane of his own make with an engine of only 30 horse-power. At eighty kilometers (roughly fifty miles) his time was only thirty-seven seconds of the time made by La Blane with an engine of 100 horse-power at Belmont Park.

Ninety Miles an Hour. Think now of the speed possible with a machine designed on the same lines and carrying a passenger. Over sixty miles an hour with 30 horse-power! That looks as if ninety miles an hour was going to be possible. The same Mr. Neupert, on another machine of his own make, with a 40 horse-power engine, his floor is arranged to carry as well as himself, so if the weight of these passengers had been replaced by extra engine power one would get some idea of what might have been done.

The Biggest Prize Money. The race with the biggest prize money is the "Four Capitals" race, or "Grand of Europe," starting on June 4 from Paris. One hundred thousand dollars will be distributed in prizes to the various winners of different stages of the race. From Paris the aviator will race to Liege, Hanover and Berlin, where the big Berlin paper, the Berliner Zeitung, and the Kaiser's court, will organize festivities in their honor.

The next most important race is the "Grand of Britain" for the $50,000 prize put up by The London Daily Mail. This starts from London on July 30, or thereabouts, and the course runs via Newcastle-on-Tyne to Edinburgh, Sterling, Glasgow, crossing the dangerous Cheviot Hills on the way. Then the flyer has to fly over the Cumberland Hills to Carlisle, and from there for Liverpool to Bristol.

Besides these big prizes there are a host of smaller ones, all put up for cross-country flying, chiefly in France, England and Germany.

Cross-Country Flying Difficult.

Cross-country flying is not so simple as it looks, as we would find out soon later, when two men out of three got hopelessly lost in a slight mist when trying to fly the twenty miles between the famous aerodrome at Brooklands and the new one at Hendon. It is dead easy if there is a railway line or a river to follow, but going across such guides instead of along them at a height of 1,000 to 1,500 feet gets one considerably mazed as to direction. Every day there are 300 feet high looks dead flat. Big rivers look like street cutters, and small rivers do not show at all. There is no perspective and very little to judge distance by till one gets trained to the work and acquires judgment.

However, all the leading flyers are now training for cross-country work, and we in Europe hope that some of the American flyers who intend coming over for the Gordon Bennett race will come a bit earlier for the "Grand of Europe," and will stay a bit later for the "Grand of Britain."

They are assured of a good reception at any rate, for the British flyers, and most of the French flyers, are thorough good sportsmen.

"Do not sneer at the juvenile intellect," said a district superintendent. "Sometimes a boy can ask questions that a man can't answer."

And he went on to tell of an experience he had when he was principal of one of the New York schools. He was called on by a teacher to come to her aid.

"It's all right," said she, "until James lives on a farm, and he thinks he knows more about natural history than the man who invented it. He keeps asking me questions—and if I answer them Sammy laughs, and if I don't the children do. Discipline is simply easy to pol. The children would give up their recess if I would lengthen the natural history hour by five minutes."

"So," said the school superintendent, "in the pride of my mind I told her I would come to her rescue. One short sharp answer will denote to Sammy that the machine is his. The teacher welcomed my aid. That afternoon I dropped in and took charge of the exercises. I told the children I would allow just one question each. And Sammy stumped me. I had hardly made the announcement before his hand was up."

"What is it, Sammy?" I asked.

"Has a duck eyebrows?" asked Sammy.

"I had a message from the Black Hand," said the resident of Grattburg. "They told me to leave $2,000 in a vacant house on a certain street."

"Did you tell the police?"

"Right away."

"What did they do?"

"They said that what I was about to do I might leave them a couple of thousand in the same place."—Washington Star.

The curfew bell will soon be ringing in Coleman, B. C. Enderby, B. C., will be lighted by tungsten street lamps.

Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

"Do you consider it a moral wrong to cheat a lawyer?" asked the person who is always looking for a chance to start something. "No," replied the man whose specialty is worldly wisdom, "but I consider it a physical impossibility."

First Venerable Man—"I met old Bill James just now, and he had the assurance to tell me that he felt as fresh as a two-year-old." Second Venerable Man—"Likely he meant a two-year-old egg."

"Bridget," said Mrs. Hiram Offer, sternly, "on my way home just now I saw that policeman who was in the kitchen with you so long last evening, and I took occasion to speak to him."

"Oh, sure, that's all right, ma'am. O'm det jealous."

"You are the first man I ever permitted to kiss me."

"And you are the first girl I ever kissed. Will you marry me?"

"I wouldn't marry a liar."

"I would,"—Houston Post.

"I see one of your battleships reported fast in the mud." "Well!" "I was just thinking that a ship fast in the mud ought to be a record-breaker on the open sea."

Diner—"I say, waiter, what's the difference between 'sherry' and 'fine old sherry'?"

Waiter—(confidentially)—"Just oysters on the outside of the bottle, sir."

"Don't I give you all the money you need?" her husband complained.

"Yes," she replied, "but you told me before we were married that you would give me all I wanted."

Mistress—"Would you care to have this last season's hat of mine, Mary?"

Mary—"Oh, thank you so much, mum. It's just the one my young man likes me in best."

She—"There is nothing in this English magazine."

He—"It must have come over on the same steamer I did."—Kansas City Times.

"My dear," said a wife who had been married three years, as she leaned across the table on her lord and master, "tell me what first attracted you to me? What pleasant characteristic did I possess which placed me above other women in your sight?"

And her lord and master simply said: "I give it up."

He—"Very interesting these Morris-Dancers. Have you ever seen any before?"

She—"No. I don't even know who Morris was."

Mr. Slimson—"Willie, didn't you go to the trunk-maker yesterday and tell him to send round the trunk I ordered?"

Willie—"Yes, pa."

Mr. Slimson—"Well, here is the trunk, but no strap."

Willie—"Yes, pa; but I told him I thought you hadn't better have any strap."

BALLOONS ARE MAKING WAY CANADAWARDS

Honeywell and Tollard After Long Distance Work Record From Texas.

San Antonio, Tex., April 15.—H. E. Honeywell and J. W. Tollard, both of St. Louis, Mo., started last night in Honeywell's balloon in an effort to win the Lahm cup and to break the world's record for long distance flights for balloons.

The start was successful. The balloon rose rapidly and floated off to the west, disappearing in a few minutes. The aeronauts soon expected to strike a northwesterly current. They hope to land somewhere in Canada.

The balloon is made of a mixture of silk and cotton and it carries an unusually small basket, only 3 ft. 4 in. and 1 ft. 8 in. and is exceptionally light. A lime stove is carried for cooking purposes.

Lieut. Honeywell is an officer in the signal corps of the Missouri National Guard. He is a balloonist of long experience, having been a pilot on several previous long distance flights.

Honeywell's attempt to break the twelve months, which had its start at San Antonio, Clifford Harmon started from here in the spring of 1910. It ended in Arkansas in a storm. Wm. Assman, of St. Louis, started from here last February in the balloon Solia and landed in Missouri.

A well known theologian said in a recent address:

"Thomas A. Edison tells us that he thinks the soul is not immortal, but after all, what does a great wizard know about souls? He is electricity and machinery, and when he talks of souls he reminds me irresistibly of the young lady who visited the Baldwin Locomotive Works and then told how a locomotive is made."

"You pour," she said, "a lot of sand into a lot of boxes, and you throw old stove lids and things into a furnace, and then you empty the molten stream into a hole in the sand and everything yell and swear. Then you pour it out, let it cool, and pound it, and then you put it into a thing that bores holes in it. Then you screw it together and paint it, and put steam into it, and it goes splendidly, and they take it to a drafting room and make a blue print of it. But one thing I forgot—they have to make a boiler. One man gets inside and one gets outside and they pound frightfully, and then they tie it to the other thing, and you ought to see it go!"

WINNIPEG MAN IS A REAL AUTHOR

Account of an Adventure in Yukon Was Used by Another Man in The Popular Magazine.

Winnipeg, April 15.—The April number of the Wild West magazine contains a short story entitled "Christie and the Bear," in regard to which the following statement is made by The Tribune by J. M. Christie, who is now a resident of Winnipeg:

"This story as used in the magazine and in which G. H. Gibbons appears as the author, is substantially the same story as was dictated by me whilst in the hospital at Victoria suffering from the results of my encounter with a grizzly bear, to C. L. Armstrong, a reporter of the Victoria Colonist, and it was given to Mr. Armstrong on the understanding that it would not be used on any other occasion as I told him it was my intention to publish it in a magazine. It appears that Gibbons is a reporter on the Colonist, but I have never seen him nor authorized him in any way to use this article. He gives his address as the Legislative Assembly, Victoria, but why he should do so is at a loss to understand."

"The occurrence referred to in the article happened about eighteen months ago in the upper part of the Yukon River, Yukon Territory, where I had been trading and prospecting for nearly twelve years, and the story contains the account given by me in the interview with the Colonist of how I was attacked by a grizzly bear, as a result of which I had my skull clawed and torn, was rendered almost blind, had my face torn and forearm and leg badly chawed, but succeeded in pulling the trigger of my gun twice, thus disposing of the grizzly, after which I dragged myself about eight miles to the hospital, where I gave the Colonist reporter the interview in question, which now appears in magazine form in direct contravention of the express conditions under which the interview was given."

BOERBERG TRIAL AGAIN ADJOURNED

On one is the pillow saturated with blood. Two cats which have never left the house, and a dog of life to the scene. The solicitors for the defence who yesterday visited the scene for the first time, traced the route the murderer took.

Knew the Country.

To escape safely from the spot on the dark night on which the deed occurred the criminal must have known every inch of the ground. About fifty yards from the house he ran through thick brush, over broken trees and stumps, to where his horse was tied. Then on horseback he galloped for miles across country, according to the evidence of the Crown. Tracks leading from the trees are sworn to be identical with those of "Girle" and lead nearly six miles to the corner of Soderberg's farm to the southwest. For hours yesterday, Tweedie and Robertson, counsel for the accused, examined the tracks where the horse was tied and the route the murderer is supposed to have taken. With them were a number of Stettler young men who were assisting in securing evidence for the defence. Photographs of the gates were taken, diagrams were made of the scene having driven out from Stettler about the track but about a mile and a half. The "merry lads," telling them he was not then in the witness box.

To Present Defences.

It was late at night when the lawyers returned, and they assert that they secured much information that will help their case. At any rate it now seems certain that the defence will be presented at the preliminary Soderberg's three months' trial is still in the hospital but is making rapid recovery from the measles and is sustained by her hope that her husband will be acquitted at the preliminary. If he is sent up for trial it is feared that she will completely breakdown.

Mr. McCallum, of the licensing department, watched the case in the interests of his office.

It was when J. A. Clarke, acting for the men, attempted to lay another charge of any kind against these employment offices for what the new measure was a strategy on the part of the men, who stated that he was practically helpless in the matter in any case, to have control over licensed agencies operating under a municipal license. The magistrate held that he could not grant a license, or discipline a licensee.

J. A. Clarke states that he has been requested by the men to bring this condition of affairs before the city council, and if no redress can be obtained there, to draw the attention of the provincial government to the state of affairs which exists and the helplessness of the workmen who are in the district seeking work.

Mr. Clarke states that of the men he met in connection with this case, over half of them were intending home-leaders and the other half were workers to be met anywhere.

WORKING OF MAGNIFICENT CATHEDRAL IN NEW YORK

The magnificent organ, the largest and most complete in this country and one of the largest in the world, will be played for the first time on that occasion. It has four manuals and stops and is capable of producing some seven thousand tones. The organ is divided into two parts, operated by electricity, and placed high up in the galleries, over the choir stalls. It is played from a gallery over the south stalls.

According to the programme arranged for the evening, the organ will be played in the Synod Hall and proceed to the south end of the choir. The organ of the procession has been carefully prepared and every effort will be made to prevent confusion. Special seats in the crossing have been reserved for every one of the invited guests. In the afternoon of the day of dedication at Evening Prayer there will be appropriate music but no sermon and the service will be open to the general public.

The location of the Cathedral, upon the highest point of the crest overlooking the Marquette district, 120 feet above the level of the sea, is well calculated to afford a marvellous view of the city and the Sound on one side and of the Hudson river on the other. The plan submitted by Mr. C. Grant La Farge were accepted and have been approved by the city council. The plans submitted by Mr. C. When completed, it will be a cruciform structure, 520 feet long, 165 feet wide across main and side aisles, 258 feet across the transepts. Its area will be about 100,000 square feet. At present three of the sides of the crossing are many children from just such circumstances, or worse. The explanation of this system is given in the annual report of Supd. Chickwick as follows:

It is impossible to say how long it will take to complete the structure and it is estimated that its cost will be more than $10,000,000. The greater part of this sum has been contributed by wealthy patrons. The southwest corner of the church will cost about $60,000 a year according to conservative estimates.

Probation.
The best work accomplished by the department since its inception is the preventive work carried on through the co-operation of the various police departments of the towns and cities of the Province, the R.N.W.M. Police and the parents of the children involved.

When a child makes its first break over the border into delinquency, a parent is requested to call with the child at the local office of the chief of police, the Juvenile Aid Society and talk things over. Home conditions, studies and companions are discussed, the suggestion made that the child be put on probation for an indefinite time to report either in the office of police, or to some competent party who is in the interest of the child at heart.

The child signs an agreement with the Police to behave and keep out of mischief; the parent signs his consent to his child's reporting, and if an outside probation officer is used, he is attached his name to the agreement to help keep the child on the right track. The parent is given a card, which is a number of cards showing a full week for report on conduct, and time retired each day. These are countersigned by the probation officer and returned to the office in Edmonton each week.

In the event of a series of good weeks, a letter of commendation is sent to the child, and in the event of bad records, a letter of regret and counsel is forwarded.

When the parents give their co-operation to this plan, probation is the most successful of all methods of dealing with a child who is inclined to be a delinquent.

This plan puts within the power of the probation officer the supervision of the home, the breaking up of bad companionship and the reforming of bad habits. It gives him an opportunity to come in close contact with the child at his most impressionable time, and to impress him with an understanding that he will carry for life. Probation is useless in cases of hardened offenders. They require an institution, and are "suspended sentence," and fail to report to their officer promptly. Care and common sense have to be used in placing children on probation, in order that only first offenders or border-line offenders on delinquency may have its advantages.

Over four hundred children have been dealt with by this plan during the past year. The majority of them were taken before the Courts of the Province for second offences.

WHISTLE BLAST STARTLES COURT

Thomas de Angelis and Antonio Gaudino as the murderers of Genaro Cuccolo and his wife, in furtherance of a conspiracy with the priest Carlo Vitroz through which they sought to free of suspicion Enrico Amadio, his brother and brother-in-law, were yesterday taken before the Courts of the Province for second offences.

"Now," said Ascritore, pointing to Amadio, who was seated in the audience, "that gentleman comes here without a cent, and he is the expense of having five lawyers."

Amadio retorted: "I am always the victim of a conspiracy."

"One day," continued Ascritore, "Amadio, being drunk," said that he had been so poor that he had often asked the prisoner for a loan of a few shaves."

ALEXANDER TAYLOR SCHOOL WON.

Five school teams of five members each took part in the rifle competition at the range yesterday. The medal for highest score was won by Jas. Howie of the Alex. Taylor school with a 10-18 out of a possible 20. The Alex. Taylor school also carried off the team prize. Col. McCrear, adjutant-general, and Capt. C. H. Flint, gymnastic and military instructor on the range, the members of the Alexander Taylor school team were as follows: Capt. J. Howie, Private J. Johnson, Sergeant R. Skitch, Private V. Vance, and Private Moon.

W. J. Gardy, accountant of the electric light department, who has been at his home in Jersey, Channel Islands, for some months past, will return to Edmonton next month. He leaves Jersey on May 6.

The invasion of Edmonton by the teachers of the province who will gather in the city for the second annual convention of the Alberta Educational Association, began this morning, and a large number of the eight hundred teachers who will be here, arrived for the meetings on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, came in on today's trains.
